

Guidelines for Growth ~ Respect Self, Love Self

Mushiba: Respect Self, Love Self: the first two components of the Guidelines for Growth. The Ferris Wheel is the symbol Waith uses to represent the flow of The Guidelines, both concrete and abstract

Waith: “Think of [the Guidelines for Growth] as if it is a Ferris Wheel that is moving around and it comes to the point where you need to get off. It brings you to the docking point. You are still in a circle and have been experiencing the movement around and around and it is time now to get off, and out of, the circle. The point, in the concrete, that you get off the nonlinear circle is Respect Self. This means that you begin with Respect Self, as you exist in this concrete, linear dimension and, which is what you must balance ~ linear and nonlinear.

“Next is Love Self. Respecting And Loving Self are the two critical components to keep this Wheel going ~ nothing else can happen to accelerate this nonlinear Wheel without your understanding of Respecting And Loving Self and your attempts to go within Self to bring Respect And Love Of Self. Respect can be considered NON-EMOTIONAL. Love can be considered EMOTIONAL.

“The emotion of love comes out of the NON-EMOTION of respect. Respect is an attitude that one has for Self and the world in which Self exists. Out of respect comes love ~ you cannot have any greater degree of Love For Self than you have for Respect Of Self. And, you cannot have love without respect, for love is the working instrument that comes from respect. You can, however, have respect without love.

“Love tempers respect. The respect, in some cases, can be very hard. When someone says that they Respect Self and will not allow a particular behavior by others because they respect themselves, that can be looked at as almost jaded. So, love enters in and tempers respect. Love and respect simply feed on each other and give fuel to the circle that keeps the Wheel moving.”

Our lesson learning occurs incrementally, percentage by percentage, and takes many lifetimes to reach 100%, as determined by Self. The Guidelines are meant to be just that: Guidelines ~ to both advise and escort us on our return path to The Universal Consciousness.
