Topic ~ Questions Relating To Playtime On The Earth Plane

As you are aware, this session with all of you will be devoted to open questions relating to our topic of Playtime on the Earth Plane. We would want to keep those questions to the topic and to remember that for the coming earth plane year we will be devoting sessions to open discussions on any topics that you might have. This will work in conjunction with the categorizing of all of our pearls of wisdom that have come through from all of these sessions.

So, we would want to begin with questions that you would have relating to all that we have given relating to Playtime on the Earth Plane, and even if you are not quite sure what you want to ask, do not fear the asking of the question. If it is a question that we would prefer waiting to answer at another time, we will simply indicate that, for we want the focus to help our little categorizers in the community who will be attempting to put order into that which we present. So let us begin.

Someone Is Obsessed With The Effects On The Environment While Trying To Have Fun

There seem to be occasions when I really hold myself back from having fun. For example, when I watch fireworks, I wonder about the stuff falling, and pollution. There is always an aspect to the environment while having fun.

Oh, indeed. And coming in through the astrological sign that you chose brings about that type of perspective where there must be an order to everything.

Well, no, not order but there is ~

Well, there must be explanation to everything. This is the same situation. "Why is this happening? And what effect is it having? We cannot simply allow something to happen for the sake of happening, and therefore, there must be reasons for it, and what effect will it have when those beautiful fireworks, as you call them, reach the ground?"

Might end up in a fish stomach or something like that.

Oh, yes, indeed. Yes, indeed, and who is to say that that is not appropriate? For, you know, you think so unidimensional that you do not realize that other dimensions exist around that which is the earth plane, and that what you might call these sparks going into the intestines of fish is no different than light and energy that comes from other dimensions in an attempt to provide levity, to provide gaiety in those dimensions that it comes into your vibration, you see. Depending upon the dimension in which each of ~ finds ourselves we can be a fish to another dimension, you see.

And what you need to let go of, my love, is that everything must have a sense of seriousness and that everything must be your responsibility in terms of consequence. Now, yes, everything that is done in any dimension affects every other energy in every other dimension. There is absolutely no activity that any energy, regardless of its encasement and its dimension, can do that does not affect all the other energies. And thus, if you were to be so concerned to the extent of being obsessed of everything having an effect on everything else, then you lose sight of the higher purpose, you see ~ and the higher purpose being that all activity engaged in by energies is necessary for the growth of energies and the return back into The Universal Consciousness.

So, yes, for some, the concern of the effects of fireworks, for example, is very legitimate, for that is what is needed at that point in their own path toward an understanding of the order of all energy and to have a sensitivity to that which occurs. It would be impossible ~ and we have said this in other sessions ~ it would be impossible to not have what you do affect some other energy form. As you sit, you are impacting upon other energy forms. But that is part of their path, to be part of your sitting on them, you see.

And so, all works in harmony. All is interconnected. It can be a very difficult concept to understand and to accept that, yes, everything is interconnected ~ and yes, it is all right that everything impacts upon something else ~ and that it is your responsibility as an energy to be concerned only with where your point in the path is and how it relates to that which is presented to you for learning ~ not to be concerned if another entity expresses to you that they do not care if the fireworks affect the environment. Do not be judgemental of an entity who would express perhaps a lack of concern. And at the same time, do not feel superior that you do indeed express concern over the effects. Everything has an effect upon everything else. It is simply a matter of degree as to its impact upon your own path and your own development.

It is important, however, to lighten up about this ~ to lighten up. This is, for many of you, a very difficult path that you have chosen, that you find yourself surrounded by events and activities that force you to lighten up, and you resist it. You say, "I do not want to lighten up. I want to be serious about this. Leave me alone." And the moment that you say this, of course, other activities, other people, will come into your life, perhaps in a way that exaggerates that which you are trying to be so serious about, for this is the way of The Universe, exaggeration in order to balance.

And the moment that you say to The Universe, "Leave me alone. I do not want to do this," at Soul Level, there is an immediate response. The Universe and the Soul are in conspiracy with each other, you see. Conscious Self does not have much of a chance once the Soul has said, "This is the way it is, whether you like it or not." The Soul knows. Yes.

So, my love, you have become a much lighter Virgo.

Yes, but there is a lot to go.

There is much, much to go. You know, even Mushiba, in her Lightheartedness, is still very much of the Virgo condition of everything being in place, and she laughs at it now when others make fun of the way that she places everything into order. We sometimes play with her when she does not realize it and we sort of put things out of order just to irritate her. ☺

A Discussion Of Male And Female Issues Regarding Lightheartedness

I have noticed that women have it easier to play, that they will chatter about simple things, like their hairstyles. I always felt, how can you talk about this? There are so many serious things in the world to discuss. However, I envy women. They have a great time. The men talk about politics, or economy, or terrible things. Is there a pattern? Are females easier going and enjoying life more?

You might want to ask one encased in female gender, for this particular lifetime, if they feel that it is easier being in the female versus the male encasement. You know, from our other times of talking about the male/female situations and understanding ~ to understand that energy can have a dominance of either male or female as it goes about its journeys on the earth plane, and in other dimensions that may not appear in the encasement. So many of you are in the opposite encasement of what your dominant gender, as you would call it, is, so that you may be dominant female but in a male encasement and dominant male in a female encasement.

It is all part of the play that goes on, on the earth plane, so that you can begin to understand the complexities that are involved in the paths designated to the male energy and designated to the female energy upon entry out of The One. In order to understand the complexities of, and the differences involved in, each of those paths, you must experience what it is like to take on many different roles within the female or male encasement, and life that exists. Now, as you call culture on the earth plane, depending on where you happen to land on the planet Earth, in any given time frame, and in any given culture, will determine the degree of ease or unease that relates to the gender.

Now, complicating this even more is the fact that some who you would meet would feel very comfortable in being lighthearted and frivolous. and it has nothing to do with whether they are in a male or a female encasement, or whether they are male dominant or female dominant. It has to do with their own development as an energy ~ their ability to be lighthearted ~ and that it would be very simplistic and almost to the point of inaccurate to say that one gender had it over another in terms of being lighthearted, for the issues of what the energy takes on in a lifetime are what are at the heart of their abilities to be lighthearted and to play on the earth plane, you see.

And it is a judgement, my son, most definitely, to say that you observe that the female talks about their hairstyles and to think that that is frivolous. Well, you know, to them it is not frivolous. And so, what if it is? And, that the matters of discussion that many serious minded entities take on in those issues of the earth plane ~ the governing of the earth plane and all of those issues that seem to matter so much, that are all about to come toppling down anyway, and be renewed and energized in a much more enlightened manner, are taken on by entities specifically so that they can begin to work through their own seriousness, you see.

Now, you have taken on a path in which the occupation that you have chosen is one that can emphasize your seriousness. And you have come into initially a culture that glorified the male and deglorified the female, which is a rather common occurrence on the earth plane currently. In some cultures, not quite as severe as others, but this is all for learning, you know. And we have placed on the record the issues of male and female and why much of this is occurring. So, my son, we would say to you, lighten up about this and be careful of judging what you think is frivolous, for others may then feel that they have the right to judge you about what they think is frivolous in your regard.

I used to judge. I learned this over the last few years, that it is up to each individual how to enlighten themselves.

Yes. Yes, indeed, you have come a ways.

(Someone else is speaking) Correct me if I am wrong, but I think you are really looking at interactions of females with a certain kind of feeling that they are having a lighter time of it, and maybe there is something you would like to be doing there. Right? I did not get judgement out of that at all.

Yes, that is true. Yeah.

Ah, judgement. It is one of our favorite topics. You all think you are being nonjudgemental. It is quite interesting. Quite interesting.

Responsibilities And Balancing Within Relationships, Versus Just Within One's Own Self

When you take on a relationship with someone, isn't that then taking on responsibility for the other? You mentioned before responsibility for Self only, but when you get into Universal Love, and there is a specific type of love, isn't there a kind of responsibility that goes along with that?

Of course, my son. When you take on the responsibility of your own path, in order to work through your path, you work in conjunction with others. It cannot be done alone. Ultimately, you must take responsibility for Self. However, in order to work through the issues, you agree with another to work within the context of a relationship, as you might define it, however that relationship would function. And it is virtually impossible to grow in any great degree by existing within Self.

To come onto the earth plane and be what you call a hermit can provide in some cases a certain type of growth for the entity, but this cannot be ongoing and continuous, for balancing requires the working with another. And so, yes, you do take on responsibilities with another. This is what makes the issues of balancing so complex and oftentimes so difficult.

There is a difference there between responsibility that two entities agree upon and, let us say, I decide to be responsible to correct the environment all by myself, or what have you. But that is different, isn't it?

You are responsible only for the development of Self. You are not responsible for any other entity's development of Self. That is a primary directive. What occurs, however, is that you agree with other energy forms ~ be they human, animal, mineral, plant ~ you agree at higher levels that you will Be of Service specifically as they move along in their path. And thus, you will engage in activities that are interrelated with another energy form. But it is they, that individual, who is ultimately responsible for their own progression. Each of us needs others to help us along the way, to help us see and to learn. But ultimately, we make our own decisions as to the continued progress of our destiny. Does that answer your question?

It is still fuzzy. I just have a problem with where the line is, where we are imposing on somebody else, or not.

Well, it is a most difficult line to see oftentimes at a conscious level. The reason that we emphasize meditation and the seeking of the answers from within Self is to help you distinguish this very line, to help you to know within yourself where you are simply assisting another via the agreement that has been made with that entity, or indeed, having crossed the line and begin to impose.

No one outside of yourself can give you that answer. And thus, it is a most difficult situation, and it is the reason why you must find the answers from within yourself. You can seek out guidance from others on the earth plane and even the guides ~ your Spirit Guides serve in that same capacity. They, however, cannot make the decisions for you. They are not allowed to do that, just as you should not allow anyone outside of yourself at the physical plane to make decisions for you. You make your own decisions.

And taking on responsibility for Self has its consequences, for you must indeed look at the impact of your behavior upon others. And this is all part of what you are here to learn. Some go about with quite a chip on their shoulder thinking that they are metaphysically inclined. They are in a spiritual path and that they can do absolutely anything that they want, because "After all, it is my path. And it is too bad if you do not like this." This is not at all what spiritual development is about. Spiritual development is about responsibility to Self and Respect of Self in harmony with all other energies ~ and learning of the harmony and learning that you do not need to be threatened by another, and that each entity has their own path, and that you respect that entity's path and work in conjunction with that entity's path and not to feel that you would be threatened by another. And this is where the difficulties do come in, you see, and this is why meditation is so very, very critical, you see.

Yes. Now, you see, this all relates to the way in which you play on the earth plane. You may have thought, he let an answer go through here that was not relating to Playtime on the Earth Plane. But it does quite, quite a bit, for there needs to be a lightness in relationships. There needs to be a sense that, yes, we are here to help each other, and while we do this, and take what we do very seriously, because this is our path, we do it with a sense of lightness and humor, understanding that all that is occurring is unfolding as the Soul and The Universal Consciousness have determined.

Not Having Enough Time In The Day To Devote To One's Priorities

I struggle with wanting order and cleanliness in my home, and I feel guilty cleaning the house instead of being outside with the children. I can't do both. I always feel there is not enough time in the day.

And there is not, my love. And, you see, the key here is to understand that many, many entities on the plane now have taken on an accelerated path, meaning that what they perceive to be for accomplishment of their own path does not have enough time, as measured on the plane. And part of taking on an accelerated path is that you will then be forced to look at those issues that are most important. It is deliberately set up by your soul that you be bombarded, oftentimes, with so much stimuli that forces you to look at truly within Self what is important, and not what someone else has determined is important.

Someone who would say to you "Well, you have children and you should devote your time to them and not to the house." And another who would say to you, "But you must make certain that the house is clean." And the balance ~ well, what do you feel within Self is important for that which you have taken on in your path, understanding that the relationships of those who come in through you are also part of the scenario, and that you must be so careful of allowing others to dictate to you.

And to also simply say, "This is rather humorous. Here I am faced with all these things to do, and the earth plane has determined there to be only twenty four hours in a day, and try as I might, I cannot get one more second out of each day," and to relax about the fact that what you need to do will be accomplished if you connect with your Higher Self. Rather than trying to force something to be the way you think it needs to be, allow the events to flow with you, and to laugh. As soon as you laugh, and physically laugh, it breaks the tension, and the energy that has coiled itself within your own vibration is released, and you are able then to gain a much better perspective on your own activities if you laugh and say, "I have made a big deal out of this, and I have closed in my own energy field, thus, not allowing me to see the greater, higher purpose."

So, simply take a breath (Waith takes a deep breath) like that, and laugh, and feel the release. And do this in groups of entities. Do not feel that you must go often to a corner and laugh by yourself, but simply to laugh. In the midst of something, try indeed to laugh in the midst of a grouping that is being very, very serious ~ very, very serious about itself, not about what it is doing. You see, the distinction is very, very clear. Be serious about what you do, but do not be serious about who you are. All energy is inherently lighthearted. It is the encasement that brings in the seriousness.

Scientific Elaboration On The Golden Ratio, Previously Discussed ~ (See Question "What Is The Gold Mean", In Transcript Dated 06.04.1991)

There was a question where somebody previously asked you, "What is a Gold Mean?" And you elaborated on this subject, and then there was another question about whether this has something to do with a lot of energy. And finally, and I am happy to see this, you asked for help out of the group. I would like to bring up my comments tonight and ask you to make additional comments so it can go onto the final record.

Indeed.

It goes back into 1170. There was a person in Italy. His name was Fibonacci, and he actually came up with this Golden Ratio. He was born in Pisa where the Leaning Tower is, and he made some mathematic calculations and came up with this Golden Ratio, which was then being used by scientists and artists like Leonardo Di Vinci, who used the golden ratio in a painting, and also Salvador Dali. And when we look at the human being, the Golden Ratio is, if you measure this yourself, from here to the navel point, compared to the total length, and if you do this, it comes out that the ratio is always a natural number. It never changes. And so, this is the mathematical equation. You can also go into a spiral like we find in The Universe and in the design of the pyramids at Giza in Egypt. So, this is a mathematical ratio that has been used over hundreds of years. It has been found in the galaxy, for example, in, as I said, in animals, in shelves, when you measure certain diameters of the shelf, you always come to a number. The number is one point six eight (1.68). So, I was trying to put this on the easel here, but I just thought it was a chisel. I asked Limera for a chisel. 😊 She came up with the right answer as an easel. But I think it makes it a bit difficult.

(Someone else remarks) That is not what you have there, though.

It is actually the remaining of an easel. Yeah, that is what I found in a number of books, and this is called the golden rule, and that is all I can contribute to this subject.

Well, we are most appreciative of the research that you have done and also that closure now can be put into this particular question, for when it was posed to us, we quickly responded from a higher source of information available to us, but we felt that there needed to be more of an earth plane definition given so that the answer that we provided to that question is from a higher level and may not have then been completely understood without the more concrete earth plane technical information as you have given.

What you will find interesting now is in the comparison of that which we gave as an answer in that time to that which has been given now as a concreteness to this and to see then that as is always the case, there is the concrete and there is the nonconcrete, and that for many, it is important and indeed imperative that they have both the concrete and the nonconcrete definitions of a particular concept in order to understand that concept. And thus, you have done service, my son, to our mission by providing that. You were not in the session in which this question was posed, and therefore, knowing that eventually it would be provided, we have waited until that which was the appropriate timing, for you were ready now to do the seeking out of the information that you have provided.

And all of us in The Company thank you for providing this, and it will now go onto the record, and that you did indeed, my son, bring in the information, and there will be then a much clearer understanding to many, and even to yourself, of the scientific mind that, yes, "That answer that Waith gave makes sense now," as you use this concreteness as a frame of reference. And it will perhaps find itself coming out of the categorizing time frame as a special little item to be given out to entities as a little gift perhaps from us and from your efforts, my son. Would you like that? You could have your name right there beside Waith.

Even after studying this, I do not see the real connection between the earth plane definition and your definition.

You will, my son.

Okay. Maybe when time comes.

You will. Perhaps just simply having Mushiba show you that connection will be all that is needed. Many of you will be in the same situation and many of you will not. You will see that connection. It is just part of the playtime with the little game that we set up well in advance of this scenario.

Why Did You Choose This Year As Playtime? How Does That Fit Into Your Long Term Planning?

Well, you know, if I had felt that it was necessary for that, it would have been given as information. It does fit into our long-term plans for the dissemination of information, and you need only be aware of that and not to really be concerned about why certain information comes through when it does. You may understand it at higher levels, but generally when information is coming through from other sources that is intended to increase awarenesses, those to whom it is intended to help increase awarenesses are not aware of what it is they need to increase their awarenesses about, and therefore would not understand the plan. You see?

It happens to us. Do not think that you are being discriminated against. You know, Amelius has his own plans and information that is given to us that we are to provide to others, or that we are to learn at The Angelic Level, are handled in the same way. We are not being oftentimes privy, as you would say, to the flow of information that comes into our arena from those of higher awarenesses, you see. So, it moves all the way down through the system, as you would call it, just as when you are charged with the raising perhaps of a child, and you see the plan, but you cannot possibly explain certain things to the child for they would not understand until they reach a level of awareness, at which point they can understand.

None of us, at any point in our growth outside of The Universal Consciousness, has complete and total understanding and awareness. That is why we are out of The One. Once we get back into The One, it is all quite clear. There is no question. But as long as any energy is outside of The One, there is always a higher source, even if you are ever so close to getting back into The One, the higher level is The One, you see. It sort of puts a crimp in arrogance, doesn't it?

Waith Talks About Illusion

But The One itself is an illusion, so then where do we go?

Oh, indeed, a topic for another time, my son. Yes. Being is illusion.

So there is nothing real.

It is real because it has been determined to be real by those who determine it to be real.

And then we believe it and that reinforces it.

And each of us is that being who determined it to be real ~ the ultimate responsibility, you see. Each of us is responsible for everything, and yet each of us is responsible for nothing, for it is not real.

That makes sense.

But it is real because it has been determined to be real. There would be no sense in having any fun if it were not determined to be real. There would be nothing, you see, without the illusion of something, even if that is an illusion, that there is an illusion of something that is not coming from anything. You see? We would not be here. You would not be here. We would have nothing to do. We do not exist, and yet we fully exist. We have never existed, and yet we have always existed ~ all of us.

I am, therefore, I think, and therefore I am.

A simplistic way of approaching it. Yes. Nonetheless, most valid.

It is difficult to comprehend that whether we just take it the way you say it or we start thinking about it, then we may become totally confused about it.

Yes, indeed. Completely confused and yet completely clear, you see, without question, without judgement, simply acceptance of it. That is all. That is all ~ we all are. We are all here together and we are all here separately.

We do enjoy finishing a session in a way that for some creates so much confusion. Just when you think you have it figured out, the old spook comes up with some other things that make you think. You know, it is all part of the Lightheartedness that is essential ~ that is essential. Without it, it is indeed a difficult sojourn in any of the dimensions.

Are There Certain Colors, Sounds, Animals, Or Stones That Enhance Our Search For Joy?

Oh, yes, indeed. And we will be addressing those very topics in this coming earth plane year as we talk about some of the other kingdoms that are part of that which encases energy. And it will focus on much of that which provides joy and beauty and laughter, specifically as its mission, you see. Many of you have been in those encasements from many, many, many, many, many eons and illusions ago where that was what your mission of service detailed ~ to be lighthearted and joyful. That is in the Soul memories as you now are in the human encasement. Yes, the human encasement. It is a very nice encasement. One of the most difficult of all the kingdoms, however, to work through.

We now are ready to depart, and ask you now to focus your own energies within that which is the Heart Energy Center, and fill the Heart Energy Center with the beauty of the White Light that comes from your guides and your Angelic Protector. Slowly, surround the Heart Energy Center with the beauty of Self intermingled with the White Protective Light.

And now, affirm that Self is beautiful and that Self is loving. And now, take that beautiful energy from the Heart Center and send it out into the gathering of other energies here, and send to others the beauty of Self and the love of Self. And feel the intermingling of beauty and love and the wholeness that comes from the intermingling.

And as we depart, slowly return back into the conscious and keep that which is the beauty and the love that has intermingled as you commune with each other now. Respect and love Self and respect and love each other. We send to you now all the very Highest of the White Light from the very Highest of the Kingdom of Amelius. Farewell.
