Sending Light To The Earth, Continued

We bring to you all the very Highest of the White Light, and bring you also greetings of great joy. The earth has gone through a rather significant vibrational adjustment since we last spoke with you. Some of you may have felt it in minor ways within your own energy field. The entire planet has had a shifting, if you will, of its vibration and has positioned its vibration now into a particular path that will take it through the remainder of, what we can best estimate as, this year, plus or minus a few weeks on the plane, as you would measure the time.

The vibrational attunement enables the planet now to be stronger in its own adaptations to the coming changes. There will be very, very, very, very ~ we emphasize this now ~ VERY, VERY, VERY, VERY significant upheavals in the planet in the coming month on the plane, as we see this vibrationally. It will be in an area, geographically, that is distant from where you are geographically now, but it is significant and will not go unnoticed or untalked about. Untalked about. Now, when Buema does the transcribing of this, she will harass me a bit for using a new word. Untalked about.

It is not discussed, often, the changes that are occurring. Your communication systems, what you call your mass media, do not oftentimes give full exposure to some of the changes that are occurring. Oftentimes, they are not even aware that certain events have occurred. But even when they are aware, they are fearful of giving too much information out to the masses, thinking that it could create some types of panic. They are correct, of course. However, there will be certain events occurring that will be known to all and will create a bit of a panic in certain areas of the planet.

When the actual upheaval that we speak of occurs within the planet, it will therefore create a ripple effect. There will be a financial system that will crash. One of these monetary institutions will, then, also create a ripple effect, for the continuance of major earth upheavals will have its effect monetarily upon systems that are geared toward, shall we say, the protection from catastrophic events. You will see collapse occurring quite soon, one by one. To be left then, shall we say, empty, so as to then make room for a new type of institution, as you would call it. But it will take time before that settles within its own vibrational field. It is what is needed to clean out. So, you will now begin to see rather dramatically the ripple effect, as you all know it. When one event occurs, it has an impact upon others. It is a very common way of cleaning out. There will be several political systems that will also collapse as a result of the ripple effect. This will all come about as a result of this very, very, very, very, very, very large activity.

Many of you will be called upon to be at the portal, for there will be significant mass departures of all the kingdoms, not just The Human Kingdom. There will be a significant departure of The Human Kingdom. But all of the other kingdoms will also be affected. For those of you who are accustomed to being called to the portal on occasion, prepare yourself, for the call will go out, and as we have always indicated, you do not always have to respond to the call. It is a general call to those who have said they would help. Sometimes you are able to come to the portal and other times you are not. Just because we call does not mean that you have to come, and if you do not come you will be jeopardized in some way. It does work that way. It is a general bell ringing, shall we say. We go ding-ding-ding-ding-ding, and anyone who can respond does, and those who are not able to do not need to. It is a time in which you will need to also send Light to Earth. As we have given to you techniques of sending Light to Earth, you would utilize those.

Farena is working with Barjan, as Mushiba has indicated to you, on a little ditty, shall we say, a very lighthearted meditation of giving Light to Earth, and that will be part of a celebration that will take place. We will use our next public gathering with you, since it coincides with the changing of vibration in the planet into a warmer time in this geographic area in which you find yourself. We will celebrate. We will have much to celebrate for the earth has strengthened itself. Because of that strengthening, during its recent resolution of issues, it is able now to take on the next phase of its cleaning. It is therefore progressing a bit ahead of schedule, shall we say. For some of you that may be good news. For others that may not be good news, for while we have not given any exact timings of The Shifting, it is moving along in a very, very progressively rapid manner.

Remember, also, that it could slow down as the different phases are reached by the planet. So, we will not promise anything. We will simply indicate that the earth is doing what it needs to in a very good way now, but needs much Light coming from all who would be willing to give it. It has called out for Light. It is a call for Light that remains continuous, so that it has given permission, the earth, to each of you to give it Light. We have given you a bit of information about the earth and its changes, and now we would take questions from you relating to any thoughts that you may have about the changes.

I wish you had mentioned this earlier. I just sent in my insurance premium.

Ah. Indeed. However, you must continue to do so until it is obvious that you do not need to. Understand?

You just spoke about an activity that will happen that will have repercussions in the financial area. Will that activity occur in California?

Oh, now, nice try. Nice try, my love. One thing we have learned is, for we have given in other times rather specific information that proved not to be accurate, if it had been given in its vibrational configuration, it would have had a different response. Thus, we say from a vibrational level that there is significant activity about to occur. We will not be pinned down to geographic areas. We also say that, because it is difficult to pin it down, what we see is a flow of energy that is surrounding the planet, and that flow of energy is signifying that it will occur some place on the planet in a certain hemispheric dimension. So that we can say that it is not going to be where you find yourselves geographically, for the vibration is not in that particular arena. But where it actually settles is open at this point. It is going to be in a pattern, however. The pattern has already begun. There has been significant activity recently that developed the pattern, the ripple effect.

How Do We Reconcile Conflicting Information Coming From Supposedly High Sources?

You have mentioned many times about other groups that give out information on the earth right now. In many cases, they agree with what you say. In some cases, though, they seem to give diametrically opposed information, such as you say this area will be tropical, and they say it is going to be very cold here. And if they claim to be from the highest sources. How to we reconcile seemingly conflicting information?

You do not. It is the paradox of all seeking of knowledge. There will be conflicting information coming from sources that claim to be the highest. The highest what? You know, we have claimed that we are from a very high source. We have not claimed to be the very highest of all information. We have also indicated that our information is not perfect, and that no information is perfect. The only perfect information is received when you are in The Universal Consciousness, and then you do not need it.

The journey outside of The One involves the seeking of knowledge to return to The One. And it is therefore that journey within Self of conflicting information and its resolution that is the purpose of being outside of The One. And deliberately then, information is given that is conflicting, or as you would perceive it to be conflicting. For some, they hear information and that rings true for them, and they assimilate that information. It is their truth at that point in time according to all other information that they have received. Others, in seeking for an understanding, would hear, therefore, conflicting information about the same topic.

What is one to do? Oh, well, one must then seek the answer within Self and determine what feels right through your meditations. There is no source of information outside of yourself that will give you the answer. We have stated that time and time again. We give you one source of information and one source only. Take it or leave it. Take some of it. Leave some of it. Take all of it. Leave all of it. We are not concerned whether you believe us or not. We have our job to do. We are a teacher. We give you information from the sources that give us information. So too, do other sources follow that same process, my son. They give you information from their sources. If you are seeking information, you will predictably receive conflicting information. That is simply the way it is. It is the balancing. There are interpretations all along the way of information. In the end, all that matters is what you believe and that you act upon what you believe.

If you believe that this geographic area, for example, is going to be tropical, as we have indicated, and you therefore act upon that, then so be it. If you believe from another source that this is going to be a cold area, and you act upon it, so be it. There is no definitive type of consequence that comes as a result of acting upon conflicting sources of information, you see. So, we will not deny or confirm. We will simply say this is the information that we give. Assimilate it in the way that feels right for you.

If you do not like tropical weather, for example, and you are hearing that it is going to be tropical in this arena, then perhaps it simply means that you need to go someplace else, for it may be at a higher source in your own Self that tells you, even though you would say, "Well, I do like tropical weather, and I want to be where it is tropical." Your Higher Self may be saying "No, you need to be where it is cold, and therefore, we are giving you information that tells you to go into another geographic area," even though consciously you think otherwise, you see. What appears to be conflicting information is simply information that is given to you to assimilate within Self to make decisions for Self.

Different Interpretations Of Information Received

It is also possible that two people could experience being in the same area and experience things differently.

Oh, indeed. You are each experiencing now as you gather in this session a different sense of what you are hearing and a different sense of the interaction of the energies that are in this gathering. Each of you would give different interpretations of what occurred in this session. We have humorously hovered around, shall we say, after some of our sessions with you and listened in on the way you have interpreted what we have said, and it is in some cases bearing no resemblance to what we said. 😊 😊

But that is the way it is. That is not a chastisement in any way. It is simply the way that it is. It is why the information that we give out now is in its purist form, and Terra Lux is attempting to at least have the beginnings of the data base in its purist form from what we give for information. We have said so often, if you were to come back on the plane in one thousand years and you read The Waith Material, it would not sound in any way the way it began. The bible has been interpreted and reinterpreted and reinterpreted. It is not in many, many, many ways the way it originally was written. But that is the way it is meant to be for the progression of growth, for the seeking of higher understandings ~ for the purity of information can be found at the Soul Level. It is in the interpretations that the impurity occurs. Thus, it forces entities to go within Self and seek the purity of the information.

Part of our job is to be the catalyst to force you to seek the purity if something you hear does not ring true. If something you hear rings true, then it means you are in agreement in the levels of Self with the information. If you hear something at conscious level that does not seem to ring true, it means you must, therefore, go within Self and seek the balance. What is it that you feel uncomfortable with in a particular source of information? Do not blame the source of information, for it is external to Self.

Rather, take that source of external information and bring it into Self, into your meditations, and come to that which you feel is the truth. Understand, of course, that when you reach an understanding of what you believe to be the truth, it may alienate you from others, for their truths may be different, based on the same information. You come to different conclusions based on the same information. That is all right, for there are many paths and you must follow your path as you see it, not as someone else sees it.

But in any type of singular decision within Self, you must understand that you will live with the results of what you believe to be your truth, and that if those around you do not share at least a similar truth, or a part of that truth, then you may have to take your journey in a different direction and find those who share in your similar truths to a degree large enough to accommodate differences without there being an interference in a particular mission.

Defining One's Truth And The Issue Of One's Ego

Would you also say that the truths that we learn, although they may be in conflict from time to time with other truths that we learn, are those truths that we can best handle and assimilate with our philosophy of living, and concept of reality?

Most assuredly, my son. You would not have something within your consciousness that would be difficult for you to live with. Understand that there is nothing external here that is giving you truth, even though many would want something external to give them the truth. Oftentimes, in private sessions with us, and often in Public Sessions, there is the question to us, "Waith, tell us the answer. Tell us the truth." We can only give you an interpretation of information. You then take that and bring it into yourself and you find your truth within Self. It is therefore all of your levels of Self right up through the Soul that gives you the truth. It will not be more than you are able to work with, just as you are not given any issues to a degree that you are not able to deal with. Everything that comes your way for learning, you have the ability to work with it. Therefore, it is the same with the issue of your own truth.

The conflict that occurs, and this is part of the growth that one takes on in Self, is the belief in Self of what you hear for your truth, and what you think you want to hear for your truth, and what others may tell you is the truth. There is much conflict. It is why the need to trust in Self and to gain that trust in Self through meditation is so important. It means that you will take on your truth and believe in it at that moment. Truth changes within Self. As you change, your truths change. What you believe to be true now is different from what you believed to be true even the day before, and certainly years ago. Therefore, the truth that you have now will be different in the future, for you will be different in the future. You will have more knowledge of Self and of your environment and the world around you, and therefore, your perceptions will change and therefore your understandings, and therefore your truths.

It is quite simple actually, but in theory it is always simple. It is in the application at the concrete in the training ground known as the earth plane, especially, that the difficulties arise. On the earth plane the issues of ego are very strongly tested. Conscious Self is very ego bound and therefore wants to manipulate its own truth to suit itself. This is not necessarily bad, as you would say. You simply need to understand that each of you manipulates yourself. You are not manipulated from outside of yourself unless you allow it.

Take in all the information that you can possibly take in. We encourage that. It is quite important to the growth of Self. Take in that information and play with it and see what feels right and what does not feel right. What feels appropriate for you may be completely inappropriate for someone else, and yet, it is appropriate that it is inappropriate. There is no right or wrong here. It is simply what is appropriate for Self is appropriate. Just because someone else says it is not appropriate for them does not mean that it is any less valid. You see?

The Circle Of Teaching And Learning Does Not Begin, Does Not End. It Is A Circle

(For Waith's Complete Discussion Of The Four Phases Of Lesson Learning, See Transcript 04.17.1990)

We as humans accept truth as presented to us by teachers, because we feel that they have the knowledge or experience that brings them to this truth. And to visualize truth within ourselves is really a radical way of thinking that we have to adjust to.

Oh, indeed. But, you know, the more one teaches the more one realizes the need to force the student to think for Self, and therefore, teachers set up students by giving certain kinds of information that force the student to question the teacher. You are not truly learning until you question the teacher. The teacher is not truly teaching unless the teacher forces you to question, for it is in a teacher's strength that they would acknowledge they know nothing. When you realize that you know nothing, but yet you know everything, you are truly on your path toward understanding. The stronger a teacher is, the easier it is to be challenged and the more a teacher wants to be challenged. "Well, explain that to me, please," the student says. Oftentimes, the student will then surpass the teacher. And that is the way it is meant to be, for then the teacher becomes the student. It is only in that circle that growth occurs.

We have, from the very beginning of our time with you all, stressed the importance of asking questions. It is why we like to spar, shall we say, in Public Sessions. We like to bring out the challenges the questions ask. We like to banter back and forth. Sometimes you may feel a bit like a mouse with a cat. You know, the cat is going back and forth with the mouse ~ playing, you see.

Think of your own situations in which you have an understanding of something and perhaps you are a caretaker for a child. The child asks you a very innocent question, and you might be in the mood to play a bit with the child in the question that was asked. You set up the child. You say certain things that will force the child to either question or to go about and have an experience based on what you said that will truly teach the child a lesson rather than simply to have been told. Most entities do not learn through the exchange of information. They must learn through their own experiences. Oftentimes, information is given in a way that forces an experience to come about that will truly help you learn rather than to have been given the theoretical.

The circle of teaching and learning does not begin, does not end. It is a circle. One has not completely learned everything, even though there may be areas in which there is a high understanding that has been achieved. Even having completed an earth plane sojourn does not mean that one has learned everything. It simply means that you have learned what was needed to be learned on the earth plane sojourn.

It is difficult for many students to understand the concept of finding the truth within. The teacher is simply a facilitator. The teacher has an interpretation based on its sources of information. Some of those sources may be of a very high level, and therefore, you would view that as valid. Others may view a particular teacher as not having the valid information that they need, even though another student sitting right next to them has completely different opinions of that teacher. That is all right.

You seek the teacher. That is one of the truisms that comes from The Universe that the student finds the teacher, not the other way around. Teachers do not go out looking for students. The Universe sends each of us to each other. As we need information, we are given the source that will help us along our path, even if that source turns out not to be what we need. In the short term, it brings us at least into the path of seeking until you eventually find a teacher who will give you substantial amounts of information. When that teacher no longer can give you information, you part. Remember that if there was not a parting of a relationship between the student and the teacher, and the students kept accumulating, there would be only one or two teachers around. They would have all the students. It would get very crowded and no one would learn anything. The teacher could not give out information adequately for there would be too many.

So, it has to be a coming and a going. There has to be that movement away from a teacher. Hopefully, at some point, you understand that it is safe to question the teacher and to find your own truth and not be told what the truth is. No one can tell you what the truth is except for Self. You can hear guidance about truth, but only you come to what is true for you, and that guides you in all of your behavior. That gives you, then, a responsibility to be a teacher if a student comes to you. Whatever we learn, The Universe expects us to teach it. If we do not teach when called upon, The Universe has its little board up there of good and bad. This was a good behavior. This was a bad behavior. You do not want it to become out of balance, for if in too many times you do not respond when asked, it will eventually catch up with you. It is critical in the balancing for each of us that what we learn we must, therefore, teach.

Teaching At Different Levels Of Understanding

A teacher may know many levels of truth on a particular subject, but knowing the student is capable of understanding only a certain level of truth. Is the teacher not justified in relating only that truth that the student can assimilate?

That is part of the responsibility that goes with being a teacher. That responsibility is in understanding what the student can assimilate at any point in time. Some teachers are brought to students who have very strong needs for many levels of understanding, but they are only at an introductory level. The teacher, however, has a level of understanding that is much higher ~ therefore, must teach at the level that the student can understand, thus bringing them into each new level. There are situations, however, in which a teacher knows only the level to which the student requires. So, let us say that the student requires a very elementary level of information. They may be brought to a teacher who also just has a little bit more than an elementary level, just a very slight level higher. But in the teaching of that level to that student, the teacher then elevates Self.

Therefore, each of us, each of you here, and all outside of The Universal Consciousness, in teaching your own levels of understanding therefore increase your levels of understanding until you become a high-level teacher. High level teachers are not to be put on pedestals. They are not to be placed in awe. It simply means that they have much greater responsibilities now. It is very difficult when a teacher reaches a level of awareness that encompasses many, many, many levels, to then bring the teachings into levels of understanding that are lower than their highest level. It is very difficult to do that. Yet, the better you are as a teacher means you are able to adjust to any level that is needed for understanding.

With regard to balancing, if we accumulate a lot on the good side, does that mean we have to go out and get bad to balance it out?

That is not really a problem, my son. ☺ You know, The Universe is run by, in this particular time frame outside of The One, five very astute energies. They have properly placed situations into the entire illusion outside of The One that give you plenty of opportunities to become out of balance in both ways. There is no entity outside of The One who has not been out of balance with the bad. It easily can be brought back into balance with the good. It is the way in which the duality has been set up. The dark and the Light, you see. So, that has not been a problem, at least in the position that ~ I have been outside of the consciousness. Whether that situation has occurred in other illusions, I would not have that knowledge. I do not have that knowledge.

I just wanted to be clear that the overall goal was balance, rather than accumulating massive amounts of goods. The goal is to balance all the time.

Well, yes, indeed. Accumulating massive amounts of good. ☺ That is very interesting, accumulating massive amounts of good. Hmmm. We find that rather an interesting statement. Massive amounts of anything is never good, you see. It is the balance that is necessary. In the balance, you do not have to worry about having too much or too little, you see. Just right. What was that? The baby bear's porridge was just right. Yes.

Waith Discusses How He Is Learning At His Level

I was just thinking that the balance fits very nicely with the teaching pace. One of the things that I find with teaching is that I learn from everyone I teach, so that I often do not even think of myself as a teacher but just another person.

Yes, indeed. The experienced teacher has just what has been described, that sense of learning. If we are not learning, we are not growing, and we do not know everything. Knowing everything means we are back in The One, and then it does not matter, you see. Every level of understanding, regardless of its awarenesses, regardless of its height, needs to learn. There is always something to learn. We could give you an endless list now of what we have learned as a result of speaking through Mushiba at Public Sessions. Understand that what we do in speaking through Mushiba was a new experience for us. We have not done this before. We have taught in other ways. So, it was new. We have learned and we continue to learn. We find it quite, quite enjoyable, these Public Sessions. It is why we disseminate our information in this way. There were many ways that we could have done it, giving out the information, but we thought this would be a rather interesting experience, and it has proved to be a good decision.

We enjoy going back with some of the others in The Angelics and comparing notes, for others do as we do also, and giving some of the humorous stories. Some of the questions that are asked ~ even though there are many questions that we anticipate and indeed help you form ~ we are sometimes surprised, and that is good. It is good that the student surprises the teacher at times. It keeps the teacher on their toes, or in our case, on the tip of our wings. It keeps us fresh, you know.

At one time when you first began speaking, you said that you were very surprised that we had so many questions. Didn't you know that from before? Wouldn't you know that?

No. That is something we learned.

Please do not go back and start a union. We have enough of them in this reality.

As we understand that concept, especially from Mushiba's vocabulary, we would not have any need to have a concept of a union, for there is harmony in our groupings and no need to outdo the other. This is not true, however, in most other energy groupings. The Angelics, though, do have their own disharmonies, but not in the same way as you on the earth plane have. So yes, my love, we knew that this particular way of disseminating information would be an interesting one. We were reassured by Amelius that it would be interesting, and he thought that it would be a good experience for the group who works with me also to have. He explained that there would be many questions.

When you reach a certain level of understanding, and if you are away from the levels that need understanding, you forget that there is so much that needs to be explained. It is why it is important for teachers to always be in an arena of not just advanced students but beginning students, to keep the teacher fresh, to keep them vibrant, to keep them at an understanding of what it is like to have just the beginnings of the understandings. Each of us was at that level at some time. No one comes in with complete high understanding.

Thus, we were quite surprised at the number of questions and the kinds of questions. It was the caliber of the questions that surprised us a bit. The caliber of questions has changed in recent sessions. They have become much more intense and much more grounded and not frivolous, shall we say. The questions in many cases are quite profound.

We have also learned how to work with you in formulating your questions so that there are certain questions we would like to have placed on the record. As our information is disseminated, the questions we have come to realize are important will be placed on the record, and those reading our information in the years and years to come will have an understanding that they are not the only ones with a question. They will read it and say, "Oh, yes, that was what I was wondering also," you see. That is important. So, we have learned how to work with all of you in an understanding of what your real questions are and to help you in Public Sessions often to ask the questions.

Can We Help At The Portal By Developing A Pool Of Light To Draw Upon?

You mentioned that there would be a call put out to help assist at the portal, and that would also include the other kingdoms as well. Is there a way that we might focus our energy in terms of visualization or meditation that would assist with the other kingdoms?

You mean in helping them through the portal?

Yes. Are there other specific things that we might do to assist another?

Your question is, if you are not at the portal, but rather remaining grounded on the earth plane, or at some other level of Self, but not at the portal? Is that your question? Of how to visualize at that level rather than at the portal?

I have felt connected to the portal at different times energetically. But I was thinking of maybe a general thing for everyday use, to sit down as we recognize these shifts happening, ways that we might contribute our energy to a larger pool that could be drawn upon by the kingdoms for assistance.

Oh, indeed. We have given a technique of the basket of light that perhaps by the next session could be available for you to read, my love, to give you that technique of visualizing light in your basket and just simply sending that light out wherever it would be needed. You can make up many kinds of techniques. Those of you who are adept at visualization can make up anything. You can pretend to form any kind of fluffy little white circle and place a particular kingdom into it, or place all of the kingdoms into it. You could take a balloon and visualize a balloon filled with light that any kingdom could call upon, and pull the string of the balloon and it would fluff out light.

That is something, my love, that you can do yourself without any real difficulty. When Farena, in our next session, works with Barjan for the music, there will be a technique given for GIVE LIGHT TO EARTH as a meditation with music, and that may be beneficial for you, my love. You may find that to be a way to help you connect through the sounds of soft music.

Are There Specific Color Frequencies That We Could Use To Assist Specific Kingdoms?

Without trying to be too specific, are there specific color frequencies that assist specific kingdoms?

That is not our style. There is too much of that out on the plane now that says you must attune with a particular color to do a particular kind of activity. We prefer to encourage you to find your own frequencies. When you subscribe to what another tells you is the proper color for a particular activity, you are using someone else's truth without coming to your own truth. Visualizing the color red may be beneficial for some for soothing, and for others, it is not. It is what is vibrationally correct for you. If you feel comfortable with a particular color, then that will reflect itself in the way you send that light energy to another.

We have indicated that gold is the color of the light to the earth that we encourage in this earth plane year, but that is not a definitive. That is simply a guidance that you could perhaps use the color gold as a high vibration. But for some, the color black may be a high vibration, you see. It is what is appropriate to your own sense of comfort ~ and find that. It is very important that you find that vibrational frequency, that color, the sounds, you know. We will revisit the discussion of color and sound in a short period of time to reinforce the importance of finding your own colors and your own sounds, not someone else's.

You can begin by using something that has been given out to see how it feels, if it works for you, but do not feel that you are unenlightened because you cannot connect with a certain color. The color green is supposed to be used for healing. For some, that is appropriate. For others, it is not. There is the tendency, then, to feel that you have failed because you have not met someone else's standards, set by someone else rather than Self. You set your own standards after you have looked at what others have set, and you come to your own sense of Self. Do that, my love, and you will find yourself flowing much more easily than if you try to flow according to someone else and what they say is appropriate. Hear your own song, each of you. Hear your own song. Yes, my love.

The reason I asked about the colors is, just as a certain tool can help in a specific situation better than another tool might, I thought it might be helpful so we could explore the kaleidoscope.

Yes, indeed. Color is a tool. You do not need to have color to help. You do not need anything. Color is a tool. Find your own color.

We are ready to depart now, as we get the thoughtforms from our timekeeper. So, we will return now to our realm and leave you then with much Light and much joy. Focus yourselves now and feel the energy as we depart. We give you a fluffing energy as the planet moves toward its stabilization of seasons. We send to you all now the very Highest of the White Light from the very Highest of the Kingdom of Amelius. Farewell.
