Open Question Session

We think that in this gathering we would take questions from any of you relating to, of course, the Universal Concepts. Certainly, on occasion, we like to have open question sessions so that any of the information that we may have been presenting, that may be confusing or you may have questions about, you now would have the opportunity to ask for clarification, or other information that you are receiving from other sources, perhaps you would like us to make comment on, or simply questions in general that we may be able to respond to. We will open up this session, then, for that purpose.

Can A Synthetic Crystal Be Used In The Same Way As A Naturally Grown Crystal?

I have been drawn to buy a crystal. Since I did not want to afford the amount of a real stone, I had a synthetic one. I really bought it for decorative purposes. Can I use a synthetic crystal the way I can use a naturally grown crystal?

No, you cannot, my love. The synthetic, as you would call it, is an appropriate symbol for what you may be wishing to accomplish. We would encourage you to look to the crystal that you were drawn to, and rather than to look at it as an energy, rather, look at it as what its intended purpose would be with you, and then ask it to direct you to another crystal that you would be able to then bring into your environment.

What Are Some Changes In The Use And Configuration Of Crystals In The New Illusion?

At this point in the cleansing of this illusion we are not allowed to give that specific type of information, for we have not been giving specific information about what the human encasement will look like. We can say, however, in a general term, such as we have with the human encasement, that crystals will have a different proportion in size to humans than currently exists. The crystals will also have a cohabitation with the human encasement in The Water Kingdom, as we have talked about, that the human encasement will find themselves in the water ~ not all, but many will be adapted to the water. So too will certain of The Mineral Kingdom that currently does not find itself in water, will now find itself in water.

Crystals, in particular, but The Mineral Kingdom in general, will take on a more significant role in healing than it currently is doing and will have more of a role in the transfer of information than currently exists. They will come into being, as we have indicated in the past, in different ways than they do now, some in similar ways that exist now, but in many different ways ~ growing on trees, as we have indicated. This is all that we could really give at this moment. This will change within a short time frame on the plane as we will be allowed to give more specific information relating to the encasements of energy.

Discussion Of Energy Changes In The Body, Enlightenment, Judgement, And Elitism

From my understanding, all humans on this Planet Earth right now are undergoing changes with our Chakras and our bodies. Is this true, or is it only those who have become so-called enlightened, or is it everyone?

Enlightened ~ one of my most favorite words! To become enlightened, as if it were some panaceas that one must work toward achieving, and once you have reached that point, you are perfect. Enlightenment comes with each moment of existence. As you learn something, you become more aware. Being enlightened, as it is referred to on the plane now, is an elitist term. It is used by many who attempt to make themselves out to be better than another. "I have reached enlightenment. I now know how to reach my Higher Self. I, therefore, am better than you. You, on the other hand, must use candles and incense, and therefore, you are not as enlightened as I am." Or, another would say, "You do not use candles and incense. and therefore, you are not as enlightened as I am." You see, this is all such foolishness.

The issue that you have brought up is part of this whole elitist type of situation ~ the changing Energy Centers, the vibrational shifting, the polarity changes. "Ah, if your polarities do not change, if your vibrations do not change, then surely you are doomed. You are not able to be enlightened. It is only those who have been chosen." This is all so silly. We do like to break down this elitism that seems to become even more and more pronounced as an illusion changes. At the end of every illusion, this elitism comes in. This is nothing new in this time frame.

We have spoken of Energy Center changes. In fact, we have given a great deal of discussion on the changing Energy Centers. First of all, to keep in mind is that Energy Center changes occur on a very regular, consistent basis with all, ALL ENERGY. It is not an indication of superiority in any way. Any who would say to you, or try to imply to you that they are superior to you because, "Well, after all, I know that my Energy Centers are now moving East to West and yours are still moving North to South." You must be most careful of this type of energy who speaks in this way.

There is certainly going to be the situation in which, at the time of The Shifting ~ and this is all information on the record ~ those whose vibrations are not attuned to the new vibration of the planet will have to leave the plane. This is not a negative, and we have said this. It is not a negative. It is simply that your vibrational attunements need more work.

There are many on the plane now who have had Energy Center changes that bring them in alignment with east/west rotation rather than north/south. There are many who are in the process of these changes. Hopefully, they will find the switch occurring before too long because Energy Center changes can be painful, physically. There are some on the plane who will, right at the moment of the axis shift, find their polarities shifting right along with it. They may not indeed shift in their Energy Centers until that very moment.

It is an extremely judgemental positioning that many on the plane take now when they say that they have been enlightened because their Energy Centers have changed, and if yours have not changed, then you are not enlightened. Enlightenment is simply the ability to understand your own place in The Universe in a greater and greater way as you grow. That is all enlightenment is. It is no big deal, being enlightened. In fact, we enjoy the usage of it currently on the plane, for it is a way for us to shake that superiority, that elitist stance, that so many take.

So, you see, each of you in this gathering have periodic changes in your vibration. If you did not, then you would not be existing. Energy, by its mere existence, changes. It shifts, it fluctuates, it flows.

Sometimes what happens when an energy becomes trapped in several layers of encasement, which is the situation with the earth plane, it has blockages. Therefore, it appears that movement is not occurring with energy, for there are blockages. That is a whole other discussion, of course, that we have placed on the record, and will continue to give advanced information as time progresses. However, we feel it important, periodically, to emphasize the very issue that you have brought into the session this time, my love.

Do not let another hover over you with a sense of superiority for they have no idea, no knowledge, of what is going on with your Energy Centers. Simply, to have greater awareness than another is no reason to feel superior. It just means that you have worked longer and harder. It does not mean that you are better. It just means you probably have been obsessive about working longer and harder than another ~ we use that in a lighthearted term. There are many who become quite obsessed with the rapidity of their growth, rather than simply the flowing of allowing their growth to happen as it needs to.

So, as you all sit here now, your Energy Centers are fluctuating and moving. When there are polarity changes, it becomes a bit more noticeable. Certainly, from a physical stand, dramatic vibrational changes create change in the physical. Some of you may have experienced physical ailments or physical pain that have no rhyme or reason for their occurring, and they come and then they go ~ no longer. Or you may feel residual pain in the encasement periodically occurring, but you do not think much of it. That is the result of energy switching around, creating a new spot for itself.

When energy has established a new spot, can it can also switch back?

Oh, indeed, energy can go anywhere it wants to, actually. The vibrational component of each of you as an energy is, in essence, controlled by the Soul. It can move to any spot that it wants to move. It can be assisted. Oftentimes, the vibration of an energy will call out and say it would like some guidance ~ one of the purposes for those who work with energy. There are many who are able to work with energy, and when they say, "We work with energy," it means that they have an ability to respond to the call that is coming out from your vibration and help in the smoothing of the energy within the encasement.

So often, energy gets blocked and it moves into a spot that it, maybe, does not feel comfortable in. It got trapped ~ poor little thing. It is like it is in a little prison and it cannot get out ~ and facilitators come about. We have spoken of the facilitators. Healers, and those who work in many different ways with helping others to heal themselves, have a sense. They can feel, they can sense, they can touch, and they can release. They are the key. They open the door to the little prison and help the little vibration move back to where it perhaps needs to be, or wants to be, or, if it gets trapped along its journey, they help it to continue on its journey.

It is a most interesting phenomena that occurs, especially within any encasement that is on the earth plane ~ the earth plane providing layers of encasements for an energy, as opposed to other training grounds that, perhaps, just give one or two encasement layers.

Upcoming Sessions ~ Advanced Mode For Issues Of Self-Healing And Facilitators Who Assist

When I work with someone, I do feel vibrationally a difference, whether I feel something going on within a bone structure, within an organ structure, within soft tissue. Are there any correlations within the system that when someone's bone structure needs aligning that it has a different context story, relates to a different energy body than, for instance, soft tissue issues, or whatever?

It is a most interesting topic, one of an advanced mode that we would plan to discuss more of in the year coming. The meditation discussion of the year coming is very much an umbrella for issues of Self-Healing and facilitators who assist in that. We will give much more information in this area, my love, for there are several who are coming into the environs of Terra Lux, as well as some who are already within the environs of Terra Lux, who have the ability to do this and who can then begin to be facilitators to a wider audience than currently exists. We have very specific discussions in that area, for the answer to your question is yes, all of them. So, it is placed on the record now and will become, then, a more advanced discussion for a session or two or three.

Discussion Of The Effects In The Body Of Polarity Changes Occurring

If somebody has the energy changes in their body and it takes place in joints, and it is very painful, and then they go to another energy change, is it likely to stay there, repeat itself there? Or can it move around and do other things?

Very definitely, it can move around, and more than likely would move around. It would be rare that it would manifest in the same places in the same way ~ for polarity changes. For energy changes, just simple Energy Center movement, it could concentrate in a particular area for an entire lifetime, for that is a lesson that needs to be worked through. So, it may concentrate in bone, or it may concentrate in the soft tissue, or it may concentrate in the blood. It may concentrate in any of those areas. And that, indeed, is part of what we will discuss in this later time.

Polarity changes, however, are affecting the entire vibration. Therefore, you will feel changes in many different components. It is like what you would call a ~ we seek the word, we see it, vegetable ~ potpourri ~ food. Potpourri is a word, yes, for mixtures of many different fabrics, different scents, different smells, many different things coming together to form one. When the polarity change occurs, it is necessary for many different areas of the encasement to come together as the polarities switch.

As it is moving north and south, south and north, it is moving around your Energy Centers, and as change begins to occur, you will feel creaking in the encasement. Once the polarities switch and actually flipflop, as many of you have experienced, there will be a dramatic sense of WHOOSH! And it all comes together. The Energy Centers will now move in a different direction.

This potpourri effect means that prior to the actual movement and complete switching, there have been pickings at different points in the encasement. Different Energy Centers have been picked with, pulled out, and gathered ~ this ingredient that makes the potpourri ~ and the ingredients are all gathered, be it from the bone, be it from this tissue, be it from hair, be it from the entire array that makes up the encasement. Each has had their share of changes, and then they all contribute to that change that occurs.

Once the polarities have changed, however, it does not mean that, "Ah! No more. This is it." It simply means that your Energy Centers now move in a different direction. As we had discussed earlier, the Energy Centers now will just continue to have movement and change and fluidity in a different way. Between now and when the polarity of the Earth changes, those who are now going east/west, west/east in their polarities, will find themselves a bit at odds with the energy ~ may feel disruptive, may feel the energy disruptions ~ for the earth is still moving north/south, south/north.

Is this change going to be instantaneous, or is this over a long period of time? And what is the cause of this change?

Oh, it is quite instantaneous. We have given quite a bit on this subject. There is much that we have said, my love, that could in no way begin to be summarized in the time that we have in this gathering. However, your question does place on the record the need for many now to begin looking at those reasons. We are here to help in the preparation of The Shifting.

This is our mission up until The Shifting, and after The Shifting, of course, our mission is different. And thus, because it is our mission, we must discuss it and we must have information available and we must continually have it brought up in Public Sessions so as to not forget ~ not that any who would come here would forget that there is an illusion change. It is the hot topic on the plane now in many ways.

Will There Be Times When We Can Expect Our Work To Be A Little Easier?

On the path to that illusion change, last Saturday, November Eleventh, was a very significant day in the sense that Pluto moved from Scorpio into Sagittarius. Can we expect a little easier work of clearing of ourselves, our understanding things?

No. No, absolutely not! There is not going to be that situation occurring between now and when the axis shifts. No matter what any planetary alignment analysis may give you, it is not going to happen for those who have taken on an accelerated path. There are many on the plane who will simply, very easily, leave when The Shift occurs, and they will not be feeling any effects of all of this cleansing. They may feel minor effects, but some are very new on the plane and have not had much experience. Their path is very new, and there is no reason for them to be involved in an illusion change.

Most who are drawn to hear our words, who would read our words at this point in an illusion, are those who have taken on an accelerated path and who are working quite diligently to tie up either loose ends, or to have an accelerated learning mode. Whether they stay for The New Illusion is not the issue. They are using this particular time frame as an acceleration of acceleration, to perhaps come in and learn something, even if vibrationally, it does not bring them to a point where they would stay. So, if you are in an accelerated, accelerated mode, do not expect ~ you may get even a nanosecond of relief.

But you see, this is not a negative. If you have come in for accelerated work, then this is what you have come in to do. You do not want to loll around and have this easy time ~ whatever that is, easy time. This is not why you have come in at this time in the plane. You have come in for work, for acceleration.

And remember what we talk of regarding play, that for many, work is play. It is not viewed as grueling and task-filled, even though there may be many tasks that are involved, and you do say, "Ah, this is a task." But you can get joy out of a task ~ even washing dishes all day, every day, the same dish all day, every day. It gets dirty, you wash it. It gets dirty again, you wash it ~ day in, day out. View it from a more cosmic sense, as you would say on the plane, the cosmic sense. We will not bring you into that kind of discussion now, my love.

Is There A Ripple Effect In The Lead Energies At The Time Of The Shift?

There is a lot of talk about organizational charts and stuff going on. When there is an illusion change, what happens on the other end, like Angelic Levels? Say, you have got the top guy, say you have got Amelius ~

Top guy! ☺

Then you have the little line that comes down. and then you have maybe a few Archangels, and then you have got a few Angels and Cherubs. Have I got that right?

Does it make you feel good that that might be the way it is, my love? Then it is.

We did give a description of the organization of The Universe many, many times ago, when we first began speaking, and it was given primarily as a frame of reference for those on the plane to have an understanding that there is order in the way in which all flows. As best as can be given as a frame of reference, is this organization chart where there is some Being up at the top, and all these little beings that report to each other, and all of this.

However, what we also have plugged into this is the Circle Concept ~ no beginning, no end ~ and it all feeds into every other thing, so that we are all One. And so, when discussing The Oneness, there is always a ripple effect. (Someone opens a can of soda which makes a noise which creates laughter) See, this is a very good example, for every behavior, every action, every thought has a ripple effect.

Sometimes, we do not feel the effect, but it all goes back into The Oneness, and we all feel it. Sometimes a little pop-pop has an immediate ripple effect. It was immediately felt within the vibration of this gathering, which is not ~ please consume, my love ~ to be viewed as anything negative. It is to be viewed as simply the way that it is. With the use of Oneness, however, there is the need for representation of The Oneness, and that is where we come out of The One, and we have to have alignments that will keep us from getting lost. It is as simple as that.

So, we have energy threads, and energy threads report to other energy threads. It is a way of making sure that on the playground, we do not get lost. We are responsible. One is given the responsibility of a whole group. We have talked of this ~ lead energies having, then, an energy line that all the energies split off, and split off that, and split off that. All eventually come back to a lead energy so that you do not get lost.

I have an energy line. I know where I am supposed to go. I know who reports to me. I am responsible so that you do not get lost. It is very easy to stray off the beaten path, as they say. You get involved in your issues, and you go into a training ground, and if there is not some system designed to keep all of that in order, then there would be randomness. And as you know, there is no randomness in The Universe, for then nothing would happen. It would all be chaos. But out of the chaos comes order, and out of the order comes chaos, which then has order, which then goes into chaos again. That is the joy of it.

And so, yes, when there is an illusion change, it has a ripple effect. You may, in other training grounds, feel it only in a small sense. And in other training grounds, it is felt in a much larger sense. Just as when there are illusion changes in other training grounds, the earth plane as a training ground feels the effect of that in some way. Sometimes, planets align in a way that, according to those on the plane ~ whose only frame of reference is the plane ~ think that it means one thing when in actuality it is a ripple effect from another illusion change that has created fluctuation. This then, of course, will have an impact upon the earth plane in ways that you cannot understand, for there is no frame of reference yet. But certainly, there will be, as the settling in occurs and the knowledge is given.

Why Is Christianity So Hung Up On This Concept Of A Set Hierarchy?

Well, because you see, my love, it is all political. Every religion ends up that way. You know, you might find it interesting to read our most recent discussion of Organized Religion, for we addressed this very issue that you have brought up ~ why organized religions reach the point that they are in. They all begin with a spiritual concept. One thousand years from now, "Waith said ~ " and there it is, the hierarchy has been put into place.

Misinterpretation of what we say is already rampant. So, imagine then the misinterpretation of what the energy Jesus said so many years ago on the plane. Interpretation, language, interpretation, language, interpretation, agenda, items by those seeking power, seeking control ~ all of those earth plane issues that are most necessary. They are built into the training ground of the earth plane. It becomes up to each of you to distinguish among all of the rhetoric and the dogma, to determine what feels appropriate for you.

If you are reading information that we give, or that others give, regarding a spiritual or metaphysical concept, then it means that you question the organized religion dogma. It is much easier to put people in their place, as you would say. The priests have the power to do this, that, and the other thing. The nuns, of course, do not because they are female.

This is the way it has evolved. In other illusions it is the other way around. and other forms take other roles. There, predictably, has, at the end of an illusion especially, this overweight, hierarchical, perception of the way one reaches enlightenment. It goes back to that entire issue of, "If you are not in this religion, then you will not go to heaven," wherever that is. "And if you do this kind of thing, you will go to hell," wherever that is. Many say that is the earth plane.

Then how can you relate to people who believe so strongly in this type of a hierarchy? They live and stand by it.

Yes, it is an issue that is not easily discussed in this short a time frame, my love. We have addressed the issue in other sessions, of how you respond to entities. It is certainly worth revisiting, however, as we find that many on the plane are faced with the extremes of dogma perception, and actually, in some cases, attacked by those who have that belief system. And if you do not have that belief system, then you are attacked by them.

Oftentimes, it becomes an issue, my love, of instinctively knowing that there is nothing you can say to this particular individual that will change their perceptions, and that in some cases, you will be able to make a dent in their perceptions. It is where you learn, yourself, where those lines are. Sometimes you simply say, "It is apparent that we have opposite opinions and attitudes, and it would seem that we are unable to find similarities in our perceptions."

What you try to find when you have opposite opinions with another, is similarities ~ if you can find one similarity to use as the bridge. If the other is unwilling to find a similarity and to create the bridge, then you must make the decision to either back away or to try and build this bridge, but you may find it not worth the effort, for it may not be an individual who is ready for that point of understanding.

There is much more that we could talk about in this, and we certainly will, for as we speak of meditation in the coming year, the focus within Self helps you to find the answers to give to others, for they become very situational, often. You cannot make a blanket statement to one individual, for each individual has a different set of perceptions they come into the situation with. They may all be what you call Born Again Christians in the generic sense, but they each have a very different spot from which they came to that particular point. And it is those variations that you may find the similarity to build the bridge.

It would seem that our time with you will now come to closure. And we would indicate that if any of you are coming to our next public gathering, that you would bring a favorite crystal or Mineral Kingdom friend with you. Do not bring the wheelbarrows, but select one that you would like to bring with you, and we will give energy to it and perhaps give you some information, if you so ask, of what the particular mineral friend has in relation to you. We have not had a crystal, mineral gathering in quite some time, so we will do this. And you may relay that to any who would be coming with you or those who you would speak with between now and that gathering. It will be a highly charged gathering with all The Mineral Kingdom.
